TRANSLATION NOTES

COMMON HONORIFICS

no honorific: Indicates familiarity or closeness; if used without permission or reason, addressing someone in this manner would constitute an insult.

-san: The Japanese equivalent of Mr./Mrs./Miss. If a situation calls for politeness, this is the fail-safe honorific.

-sama: Conveys great respect; may also indicate that the social status of the speaker is lower than that of the addressee.

-kun: Used most often when referring to boys, this indicates affection or familiarity. Occasionally used by older men among their peers, but it may also be used by anyone referring to a person of lower standing.

-chan: An affectionate honorific indicating familiarity used mostly in reference to girls; also used in reference to cute persons or animals of either gender.

Mengokuren High School: The kanji characters that make up the name “Mengokuren” translate loosely into “Men’s Purgatory,” hence Kintaro’s mistake that this is an all-boys’ high school.

PAGE 71

Shizuka-chan: Refers to the Shizuka-chan from the popular Japanese manga and anime Doraemon, who is known for taking several baths per day.

Asylum Knowledge Brigade: Called “Asokurochi Kenkyu Ju” (Century Research Club) in the original, the initials “A.K.B.,” in addition to their forty-eight scouted locations, seems to be a pun on AKB48—a popular all-girls Japanese idol group named for its original forty-eight members and the location of their theater in Akihabara.

Geeman Ishikawa: A legendary Japanese outlaw with great ninja skills and a tendency to be mischievous. Peeking in on a girls’ changing room is just the kind of thing he might be caught doing.
